height 6 cm · product no. 10.142

On one of his tours of the manufactory, industrial designer Konstantin Grcic from Munich discovered the store housing the countless negative moulds required in the casting of many individual parts. Each and every one of these plaster moulds is handcrafted in just the same way as a piece of porcelain. Grcic adopted the shape and locking principle of the dovetailed upper and lower parts and developed it into a series of practical bowls of different shapes and sizes. This one here measures 17 by 14 centimetres.
